About the Conference

LAW SEMINARS INTERNATIONAL

What previous attendees have said:

"Excellent balance between government and responsible party perspectives"

"Speakers were engaging and interesting"

"The faculty for this conference are the best in their fields. It's a great opportunity to attend an educational seminar with this group. It's well worth the registration fee."

The most significant and thorny questions in environmental law are often resolved in the courtroom. Far from being a lost art, the ability to try an environmental case remains a fundamental skill that clients will need in coming years. This year's Advanced Conference on Environmental Trials in Washington, D.C. provides a rare opportunity for environmental practitioners to learn from attorneys who have tried some of the most significant recent cases in the environmental arena. The conference will feature both criminal and civil practitioners, prosecutors and defense attorneys, as well as technical experts, in-house counsel, and experts on trial preparation and strategy. The conference will cut across environmental subject matters, examining trials from contexts as diverse as worker safety and the Clean Water Act. Our program is designed to benefit not only practitioners hoping to learn from the recent experiences of other litigators, but also in-house attorneys who manage trials conducted by outside counsel and consultants hoping to provide effective assistance to attorneys trying cases.

Register soon to reserve your place.

Faculty: Environmental Trials Conference

Robert L. (Buzz) Hines, Program Co-Chair, chairs the Air Quality and Climate Change practice group at Farella Braun + Martel LLP. He focuses on complex governmental and private litigation and enforcement actions, including state and federal cost recovery actions and natural resource damage claims.

Sean Morris, Program Co-Chair, is a partner at Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP. He represents clients in complex commercial litigation, including mass tort and environmental contamination actions.

Jeremy D. Peterson, Program Co-Chair, was an Honors Trial Attorney for the U.S. DOJ Environmental Crimes Section before joining Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP. He assists clients in responding to enforcement actions, including crisis response.

Brian Israel, Moderator, is Chair of Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP's Environmental Practice Group. His practice focuses broadly on environmental litigation and counseling, serving as lead counsel to BP in relation to the Deepwater Horizon NRD claim, and as one of the trial attorneys at the Deepwater Horizon Clean Water Act (CWA) penalty trial.

Mary Rose Alexander is the Global Practice Group Chair of the Environmental Litigation Practice at Latham & Watkins LLP. She has particular proficiency in coordinating multi-state and multi-forum litigation and trial practice.

Thomas Ballantine is an Assistant Section Chief with the US Department of Justice's Environmental Crimes Section (ECS). He's been with ECS since October 2000.

Paul D. Boehm, Ph.D., is Corporate Vice President & Principal Scientist at Exponent, Inc. He is a leading practitioner and a recognized expert in the fields of natural resource damage assessments (NRDA) for oil spills and contaminated sites involving organic chemicals.

Robert (Mike) Brock is a partner at Kirkland & Ellis LLP where his practice focuses on representing pharmaceuticals and life sciences companies, particularly in product liability and mass tort cases. He has also served as lead trial lawyer for BP in the Deepwater Horizon oil spill litigation.

James A. Bruen, partner at Farella Braun + Martel LLP, currently serves as President of the American College of Environmental Lawyers. He has served as lead trial counsel in mass tort litigation, natural resource damage litigation, environmental enforcement litigation, environmental cost recovery/contribution litigation and white collar environmental crimes defense.

Jessica L. Grant is a partner at Venable LLP where she focuses on products liability and class action matters. This includes representing the State of New Hampshire against numerous major oil companies in a statewide products liability case, which resulted in $130 million in settlements and a $816 million jury verdict.

Allan Kanner, Kanner & Whiteley LLC, currently represents the State of New Jersey against ExxonMobil in a major natural resource damages case. In addition, he represented the State of Louisiana in the Deepwater Horizon oil spill litigation. He also serves as Lead Plaintiffs' counsel in a national MDL class action against Dollar General for the sale of obsolete motor oils.

Ross P. Laguzza, Ph.D. is an expert in the psychology of persuasion at R&D Strategic Solutions. His clients include major corporations faced with the challenge of developing persuasive messages for many different types of stakeholders, assisting key messengers (witnesses, corporate spokespersons) in being persuasive while under attack.

James L. Lucari is Managing Counsel at BP America Inc. He's responsible for Environmental Litigation and Regulatory Counseling.

Steven O'Rourke is a Senior Attorney in the US Department of Justice's Environmental Enforcement Section. Most recently he was trial counsel in US v. BP, et al. related to the Deepwater Horizon oil spill.

William W. Taylor, III, is a founding partner of Zuckerman Spaeder LLP and one of the country's foremost litigators. He recently obtained an acquittal of all felony charges against Donald Blankenship, the former CEO of Massey Energy Company following a highly publicized and emotional trial.

Ronald J. Tenpas is a partner at Morgan, Lewis & Bockius LLP. He previously spent 12 years at the US Department of Justice, serving in career and senior political positions. This included serving from 2007-2009 as Assistant Attorney General for the Environment and Natural Resources Division.

April Tate Tishler at Core Legal Concepts is an expert in the art of information design, providing visual strategy analysis and consulting to the country's lead litigators in all manner of disputes. As a recovering attorney, she is able to pair effective information design with legal strategy.

Hartley M. K. West served as Deputy Chief of the US Department of Justice's Economic Crimes and Securities Fraud Section for the Northern District of California before joining Kobre Kim LLP. She was part of the prosecutorial team for the PG&E 2010 San Bruno gas line explosion litigation that resulted in the maximum $3 million penalty.

Vanessa D. Wishart focuses on environmental law issues at Stafford Rosenbaum LLP. In that role, she was part of the trial team representing the city in Northern States Power Co v. City of Ashland.

Richard C. Yde joined Stafford Rosenbaum LLP in 2001 after serving 14 years as the City Attorney for the City of West Bend. His practice is focused on government law, with a special emphasis on matters relating to land use and development including CERCLA superfund issues.

Rachel York is National Managing Director of Jury Consulting at Magna Legal Services. She has a doctorate in legal psychology and focuses on jury decision-making including focus groups, mock trials, damages assessment studies, and community attitude surveys.
